Nile Basin Initiative
Initiative du Bassin du Nil

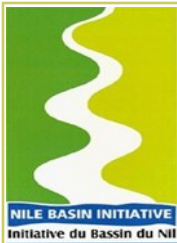

THE NBI VIRTUAL RESOURCES

The NBI library has continued to provide access to scientific literature for scholars and researchers in the Nile basin countries. This service is a result of partnership with the University of Bergen, Norway that started in October, 2013. With an annual subscription to the International Network for Availability of Scientific Publications (INASP), United Kingdom, the NBI has access to over 180 million journals.

Appreciation to the University of Bergen, Norway

THANK YOU BERGEN!

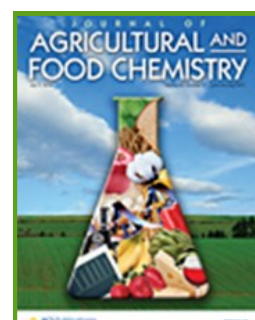

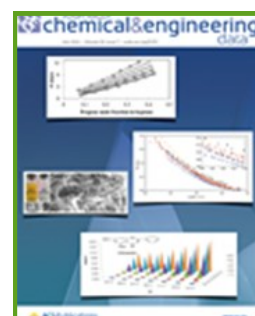

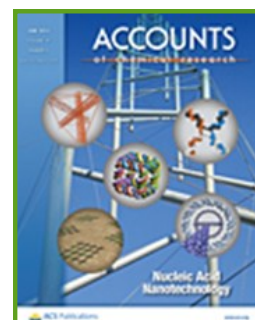

Thank you very much University of Bergen for your generous support to the Nile Basin community. The rich knowledge you've enabled us access by providing journal articles and capacity building in the area of library and information management is making a huge difference in our lives. We pray you keep supporting us as we pursue stronger cooperation in the management and development of the shared waters of the River Nile. MANY BLESSINGS!

OTHER SERVICES OFFERED BY THE NBI LIBRARY

Knowledge Products

The NBI regional public library provides a wide-range of comprehensive knowledge products on cross-cutting subjects through its physical and online infrastructures that are linked with the libraries of NBI centres in Kigali (NELSAP -CU) and Addis Ababa (ENTRO). In the main library at Nile Basin Initiative Secretariat at Entebbe, Uganda, the library collection features rich content on various themes in transboundary water management and development including capacity building; water resources management; cooperation and benefits sharing; partnerships; and biodiversity and wetlands.

Young Professional Program

A skills development program is in place to support university graduates in the area of information science. The library provides capacity building services to young professionals in different areas of library and information science through its internship program and research activities. A total of 9 students have so far benefited from this program and gained special skills in the area of electronic digitalization, among other skills.

Digitization Services

With the world going fully digital, NBI has made a deliberate effort to digitize its library collection. Advanced equipment is in place to support the conversion of hard copies of library books to electronic formats. So far, about 168 technical reports have been digitized and uploaded to the Nile Information System for wide access.
